least trends toward greater local autonomy in almost every province in the Congo.

Lumumba's political leadership would be very shaky in any country where political responsibility was understood and practiced.

But this is a nation which had its first national elections in April and May. Perhaps 10 million of the 14 million Congolese know no other authority than their local chief.

Resistance to Lumumba is not nonexistent as was shown Thursday when a thousand or more youths demonstrated against him at the opening of the Conference of Independent African States.

But is divided on political and tribal lines. There is no leadership. President Joseph Kasavubu, leader of the strong Bakongo tribe in western Congo, so far has gone along with Lumumba, apparently ignoring the aspirations of his people for autonomy and for freedom from Lumumba's government.

The two men escorted Mrs. Daugherty outside and capture of Firman, who had been inside the house, followed quickly.

Mrs. Daugherty said the fugitive was a gentleman throughout his forced visit and shared some of her coffee.

Firman had been in Coshocton County Jail originally charged with giving a minor beer.

But in exactly one month of freedom he stacked up trouble for himself eluding police and keeping citizens jittery.

He came to Hamilton with an old friend from Mansfield Reformatory days, but their car was wrecked and the friend was captured.

Firman went back to Coshocton Jail with a gun and freed a friend, Robert Johnson, 22.

Johnson, captured in Salem last Wednesday, said the two robbed a cafe, drove to Pennsylvania in a stolen car, stole another auto but became separated on a return trip.

change is made, it will not be until after 1963.

The YM now comprised of 90 churches in seven states — Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and Rhode Island.

Plans are underway for the building of another new Friends church, which will be located in the Poland area. This will combine the extension points at East Lewistown and Struthers. Pastors for these congregations now include Galen Weingart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weingart, RD 4, Salem, at Struthers, and David Myton of Columbiana at East Lewistown.

The Millville church located east of Salem, will be relocated in Salem early in October. This congregation has worshiped in a schoolhouse for a number of years. The new church will be known as Salem Southeast Friends. A beautiful brick structure, it is located at 1238 Franklin St. On Wednesday the YM asked for a special offering for this work. It amounted to over $100.

A financial report given at Friday's session revealed that the total giving for the fiscal year was $823,691.20. A gain of $52,075 over last year. The per capita giving was $128.

The Rev. Charles E. Haworth, assistant pastor of the Salem First Friends Church, preached the sermon at the Expository Hour. His theme was "The Church of God."

He stressed the thought that Christ purchased the church with his own precious blood, making it a purchased possession.

All the People All the Time

If you took stock in medical aid from Washington this year, you are one of the trusting souls politicians like to fool.

You either are among all the people who can be fooled some of the time, or some of the people who can be fooled all of the time. But it's all over now.

Medical aid was a talking point for Democrats. The AFL-CIO was for it. Americans for Democratic Action was for it. John Kennedy was for it. The Democratic platform committee was for it.

The prospect was frightening for Republicans, so they put together in haste a proposal of their own to discount the talking point the opposition intended to make of medical aid.

Their proposal was consistent with Republican principles of state sovereignty and personal responsibility. It was opposed to the modern Democratic doctrine of making Washington responsible for everything—even medical bills.

As talking points, Republicans had none of the wallop of the Democratic talking point, which was aimed to please everybody sold on the philosophy that the U.S. government should support its taxpayers, instead of the other way around.

THE QUESTION was whether the Democrats had more than a talking point. Did they have an acting point? Or was medical aid like their civil rights promise—something put in the party platform to fool people?

To come right down to it, was it something both parties were using to attract votes—a piece of live bait to cover the barb on the hook of higher federal taxes?

Medical aid bills backed by friends of Richard Nixon and John Kennedy failed to win support in the Senate Tuesday. That killed the proposition as far as politics in 1960 is concerned. The mild bill that passed has no wallop in it.

The Nixon campaign never had been geared to federal aid for medical bills; no damage is done on that side. This was to have been a Kennedy talking point, not a Nixon talking point. The topheavy Democratic majority in Congress was to have given the talking point its punch by making President Eisenhower veto a bill it would bull through the Senate and House.

Democrats could do whatever they wanted to do; they had the votes.

But Democrats, as everybody now knows, do not have composite inclination.

THE COALITION they call a political party is splintered. There is a Democratic majority in name only, not in votes.

There is a Kennedy faction, an AFL-CIO faction, a southern faction, a northern faction, a far-out progressive faction and a conservative faction.

They cannot get together on anything, because they have nothing in common. They have no principles they can agree on, no common aims, no love for one another.

People who took seriously the idea that Sen. Kennedy was going to pay their medical bills, or that Vice President Nixon was going to tide them over if they used up their savings won't be so easily fooled the next time.

Only Congress can spend money on such a scale, and there is no inclination in the House or the Senate to rush into a spending program that looks like vote bait to politicians but like generosity with other people's money to people who pay their own way.

Cuba Could Strike the Spark

Every time Fidel Castro opens his mouth to rant for another two hours, every time his brother Raul swings the Communist sickle, every time Cuba's Communism becomes a little bolder, the danger of military violence in the Western Hemisphere moves closer.

How close is it now?

The question was asked of President Eisenhower in a press conference last Wednesday. He repeated what he had said before—that the United States will not let Cuba be seized by the Communist Conspiracy and turned into a satellite government.

But if Cubans vote freely, on the other hand, to support a Communist government, the United States cannot properly object or intervene. This was an answer freighted with significance.

The President pointed out that no country ever has chosen to accept a Communist government; all Communist rule is by force, none of it chosen freely.

He pointed out further that he does not believe Cubans would choose to have a Communist government.

But what he did not say in this instance spoke louder than what he said.

THERE HAS BEEN no vote in Cuba. The Castro regime, which now has been turned into a cover-up for the Communist Conspiracy, was not elected to office. It came to power by revolution and never has had its power confirmed by free choice at the polls.

The bright hopes of the Cuban revolution's friends in the United States have been blacked out by the hysterical rabble-rousing of Premier Castro against everything America has meant to Cuba, starting in the role of liberator at the turn of the century.

The bright hopes have been supplanted by the darkest fear that ever gripped the New World—the fear that Cuba might become a New World base for Russian missiles, like guns held at the head of Uncle Sam with the connivance of a once friendly neighbor.

Statement by statement discussion by discussion, Americans are now in the process of translating their thought into policy on this vital problem of their security and the security of their neighbors.

Statement by statement, the Soviet Union is in the process of letting the New World know it intends to move into this hemisphere, with the help of Chinese Communists.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE may or may not be enforced by the Organization of American States. But the Monroe Doctrine is going to be enforced by the United States.

Cuba and Russia loomed large and ominous. In the circumstances that influenced President Monroe to issue the warning against future "colonization" by European powers in 1823. It was rumored that Cuba, then a Spanish possession, might be ceded to France. It was feared that Russia was getting ready to seize territory on the Pacific coast.

Europe did not give up easily after the warning was issued. Spain annexed the Dominican Republic in 1861. France seized Mexico City in 1863. But the Dominicans, themselves, threw out the Spaniards, and France abandoned its project for a Mexican monarchy. Since then, the Monroe Doctrine has been honored.

Cuba and its hot tempers could strike the spark that would flame into violence if its politicians continue to move closer to the Kremlin.

The United States wants to be friendly. It has worked hard at being friendly. But in the evolution of U.S. policy, Cuban insults and Russian provocations will stiffen American determination to put security ahead of forbearance, either with or without the cooperation of the other countries of the New World.

They cannot afford to let the Soviet Union start colonies in this hemisphere either, even though they, like Cuba, may be rabble-roused into thinking they like the United States, so little they like the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics more.

Once Over

Remember away back when you could write a letter to Cousin Zeke asking, "How is Aunt Jennie?" "Is Joe Winkle up and around again?" and other simple questions of personal concern? Today you might scribble:

Dear Zeke. Well, I thought I would drop you a line to keep in touch with things. I suppose you heard about the Watusi and Bahutu tribes and are up to date on news about the situation in Senegal and the Sudan. What's new in the Congo and what do you think of things in Tanganyika?

Ed Willoughby has had a nervous breakdown and the doctor blames it on his worrying about the crisis in Morocco.

The Busby's have separated as a result of arguments over Ghana, Laos and Thailand. "Skeep" Brown's boy, Milton has gone back to college for another year on account of he is still unable to keep up to date on situations in Iran, Indonesia and is slow answering questions about Sukarno's last move.

Amos Boffie got arrested last week for breach of the peace following a streetcorner dispute with Luke Frisby over Katanga, the Dominican Republic, Cyprus and the Cameroons.

I was glad to get your last letter but you didn't say a word about the Powers' trial, the OAS meeting in Costa Rica or the happenings in Brazzaville, Nicosia and Egypt. Write soon and let me know what the family thinks about Cuba and the Latin-American states, outer-space flights and whether your little girl Susie is over the measles.

We are all well here, considering the depressing news, the state of the world, Fidel Castro's speeches and Lumumba's behavior. I hope things with you are just as good and that you don't try to follow all the radio and TV newscasts.

Love and spirits of ammonia,

Casper

P.S.: The wife is feeling much better than when I wrote last time and will be her old self soon if we can keep her from reading all about street riots, protests, parades, mob actions, atrocities, U.N. squabbles, revolts, spaceships, rockets, etc.

Wonder Why They Work So Hard to Get the Job?

Why Nixon Runs Scared

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Vice President Nixon's statement that he is "running scared" should not be taken, nor is it generally taken, in its literal sense. He eagerly sought this nomination and his confidence in his capacity to exert whatever effort is needed to win the election. But there is a certain realism in the man which never takes things for granted.

Life has presented him with the many problems the outcome of which could not confidently be predicted. His habit has been to face the realities and to make every possible preparation for what there is to do.

Moreover, his experience has taught him that in politics the unexpected is almost the normal routine.

He knows further that with international complications what they are and with public concern so intensely centered upon them, what happens abroad may have much to do with the result.

ABOVE ALL, he knows that to permit himself the slightest indication of overconfidence would be to lessen the energies of party workers over the country.

In a political campaign it is easy for a state, county, or local chairman, when he has labored hard for months, to fail in some detail simply because he believes it to be unnecessary.

These little lapses, when multiplied many-fold, make the big difference in the result. A few hundred votes may swing a state and a state may change the result of a presidential election.

Nixon is an organization man. He is much more convinced that organization is the decisive element in winning an election than was Willkie, Dewey or Eisenhower.

That seems strange in the case of Dewey, who was an exacting and efficient administrator when he was a district attorney and governor of New York. But he had little faith in the capacities of the county chairmen in his state and often slighted them.

Moreover, he was a constant critic of his own party.

Nothing has so impressed Nixon as the fiasco in 1948. At that time, deluded by polls, candidate

Dewey and those who were intimately connected with him in the campaign were as serene as a lion that has just captured a deer and is preparing to eat it.

But underneath it all, his party workers were sharing his complacency and, as it proved, several hundreds of thousands of conservatives in the Republican party were losing all interest in what Dewey and his running mate were saying.

On the other side, New Deal Democrats and labor union leaders were scouring their areas, getting people to register and to vote.

TWO OCCASIONS will serve to illustrate the Nixon character. When he began to dig into the Hiss case, very few people believed his efforts would produce anything but his own mortification.

Nixon's fellow members on the House committee which had the case before it were very dubious about proving anything against Hiss.

They might have suspected Hiss but they could conceive of no adequate proof. But with indefatigable labor, Nixon succeeded.

Again, when in 1959 the President suggested Nixon's visit to Russia, the way seemed to be mined with dangers to the Nixon career.

He knew from bitter experience in South America what deadly traps Communism can prepare. But with careful preparation for contingencies, he undertook the mission amid many misgivings of his friends. And his readiness to meet the situation served him well.

Nor was the settlement of the steel strike a task which any aspiring candidate might relish. For it offered the chance that neither side might be happy at any solution. But the President had asked him to do it and he responded.

Tough tasks and hard fights have left their imprint on the man. They have given him maturity and a more serious and reserved mien than some relish.

Twice recently, in traveling on the West Coast, I have heard good friends and supporters of Nixon express the wish that the presidential candidate might be warmer in his approach. One said, "With a greater sense of humor."

Nixon's Experience

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Democratic Blasts May Backfire

President Eisenhower may have unwittingly started the ball rolling on one of the most important issues of the campaign—namely, just how much experience Vice President Nixon has had in the development of national and international policies.

The President was asked at his news conference on Wednesday to say in what "decisions" on public policy the vice president had participated and Mr. Eisenhower's answer was that "decisions" are made by the President and not by anybody else. At the same time he said that he considers Mr. Nixon one of his "principal advisers."

The Democrats in the Senate promptly thought they saw an issue and seized upon this answer as meaning that Mr. Nixon's participation on the executive side of the government had been most incidental.

Actually what the President said is in line with what Vice President Nixon himself had previously revealed in describing his own role.

IN AN IMPROMPTU interview with Mr. Nixon last May, which was not widely published in the newspapers, the following colloquy occurred:

"Q: What role do you play in Cabinet meetings, for example? Do you have a chance to speak up?"

"A: Yes, I have always had the opportunity to express myself, not only at Cabinet meetings but at the other meetings over which the President presides. Usually it is his custom, once a matter is presented at any one of these meetings, to ask the various people around the table for their comments and suggestions."

"In fact, the President always invites all of us who participate in such meetings to indicate our view before he, the President, reaches a decision."

"Q: Who makes the decisions in meetings? Are they committee decisions?"

"A: I think one of the essential rules for any orderly government is that there can be only one man who makes the final decisions. I, for one, have never believed in government by committee, because what happens then is that the decisions made represent the least common denominator of what everybody will agree to, and this means leadership at its lowest level, rather than at its highest level."

"Now, I know that there have been those who have suggested that the President believes in government by committee, that he does not make decisions or overrule members of his official family on issues. Nothing could be further from the truth."

"The President is a very patient man. He always invites full and free discussion. He tries to bring about agreement among all of the members of his Cabinet and Security Council when important decisions are being made.

"But, in the final analysis, the President recognizes that the Cabinet and Security Council are advisory to him only."

"The President, during the seven years that I have been with him, has never put a matter to the vote of the Cabinet, the Security Council or the legislative leaders. I believe he is absolutely correct in following this practice because, in the final analysis, he, the President, should make the big decisions rather than pass the buck, in effect, to his advisers. I don't mean that he isn't affected by what we all say, but he himself, after he hears what we all say, announces the decision."

"Of course, there have been instances in which the view adopted by the President has been the view held by others in his official family than myself."

"But I would say that the number of cases in which this has happened has been very small compared to the number of cases in which I have shared the views that the President has eventually approved."

THE BIG ISSUE in the campaign is not the extent to which Mr. Nixon is responsible for Mr. Eisenhower's decisions, but the knowledge of national and international problems that Mr. Nixon has gained during the last 7½ years by his presence in top councils. In the same interview, which was published on May 16 in "U.S. News & World Report," Mr. Nixon disclosed the time he has spent on executive work. He said: "I had my office do a tabulation of the meetings that I have attended since January, 1953, as recorded in my daily calendar. I have attended 173 meetings that the president has had with legislative leaders, and presided over two of those. I have attended 217 meetings of the National Security Council, and presided over 26 of those. I have attended 163 meetings of the Cabinet, and presided over 19 cabinet meetings."

IN THE SEANTE debates since Wednesday quite a point has been made by the Democrats of the fact that Mr. Eisenhower in his news conference was asked to give an instance in which Vice President Nixon had influenced a particular "decision." The President parried the question by quipping that he might think of one "if you give me a week." One of the Democrats in the Senate debate said this made it "obvious that Mr. Nixon's contributions were so slight that the President could not recall a single one."

It would have been considered indicative for the President to have initiated a discussion of this kind but now that the Democrats have opened the way, it gives him a full opportunity in the campaign to discuss Mr. Nixon's experience in government—which, after all, is one of the main questions in the minds of the voters.

It is my impression that the presidential campaigners are having trouble getting their balloons off the ground this year—not because of anything they are or aren't doing but because so many people despair of finding the answers in politics, which just goes on being more of the same thing year in and year out.

The United Nations occupied its permanent headquarters building in New York in the spring of 1951.

But wherever it shines there are shadows.

Wherever there are golden opportunities there are also sombre tragedies. Some fail to grasp their blessings.

Ours is a nation which guarantees to every child the opportunity for religious training. Yet ours is a nation which smarts under the scourge of a moral disease — juvenile delinquency.

In blessing you with a son or daughter, God has entrusted to you a precious soul. You are required by law to give your child a secular education. But, despite the scourge of delinquency, a free nation must leave to your conscience the question of your child's moral and religious education.

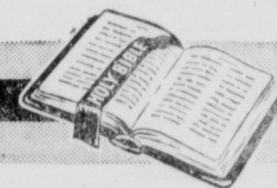

God has blessed America. With a nearby Church ready and eager to provide Christian training for your child, and religious foundation for your family's life — the Sun shines bright. But there are shadows. You must decide!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

U.S. Wrestler Holds Soviet Champ To Draw In Olympics

American Women Divers Face Failure

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
ROME (AP) — America's Richard Wilson, a Greco-Roman flyweight wrestler, held world champion Ivan Kocerin of the Soviet Union to a stunning draw today as the second full day of the 17th Olympic Games opened with a liberal test of strength between the United States and the powerful Soviets.

But American women divers, "Maybe a little bit" too confident, faced failure in 3-meter springboard diving, an event the United States has won eight out of eight times in the Olympics.

Ingrid Kramer, a shapely blonde from Germany, led the way into the afternoon finals of the event as Paula Jean Pope, 1956 bronze medalist in platform diving, and U.S. teammate Patsy Willard were well off the pace with only three dives remaining.

Miss Kramer increased her first round lead with three graceful efforts that boosted her point total to 98.38. Mrs. Pope, of Santa Ana, Calif., second after Friday's opening four dives, dropped to fourth at 90.02. Miss Willard of Mesa, Ariz., was seventh among the eight who qualified for the finals with 88.78.

The men's 3-meter diving competition also opened today with Sam Hall of Dayton, Ohio, and Gary Tobian of Glendale, Calif., representing the United States.

Other swimming events on the day's schedule were the men's 400-meter medley relay heats, men's 100-meter freestyle final, women's 100-meter freestyle semifinals and women's 200-meter breaststroke final.

The U.S. basketball team faced Japan in continuation of the first round of eliminations. Yugoslavia eliminated France 62-61 in a morning game.

In water polo, the Soviets defeated Argentina 7-4.

Canoist Paul Bechem of Washington, D.C., finished fifth in his semifinal heat and was eliminated from the men's 1,000-meter kayak singles.

Wilson, a 114-pounder from Toledo, Ohio, surprised the Russian in a second round match. The result followed Wilson's loss of Friday to D. Pireunescu of Romania. Another loss would have meant elimination for Wilson.

Larry Allen, Portland, Ore., featherweight won his second consecutive Greco-Roman match, but heavyweight Dale Lewis of Milwaukee, Wis., lost a first round decision.

Miss Kramer's trainer, Evelyn Sibinski, is confident her protegee will win the women's 3-meter diving. Asked if she thought the American divers were overconfident, Miss Sibinski smiled and said, "maybe a little bit."

But Mrs. Pope said, "I'm not worried. I still have a good chance although I went down two notches to fourth place."

"Ingrid has more difficult dives than her opposition," Miss Sibinski said, "and I'm sure she can increase her lead on the optional dives if she performs normally."

Only 28 Players Report Beaver Local Gridders Face Rough Sledding

It's going to take a super human effort by a small band of spirited gridders if the 1960 Beaver Local football squad is going to win more games than it loses this season.

Only 28 boys are out for practice, the smallest number in several years.

Head Coach Jack O'Rourke reports that the boys have tremendous spirit and desire but the team has little speed and is lacking in experience.

Half of the 28-man squad are letterwinners but few of them have much varsity experience. The Beavers had an almost unbelievable string of bad luck last season which saw just about every man on the squad out of action at one time or another because of injuries. Still, the Beavers managed to win three of nine games.

Two mainstays on last year's squad who were expected to give the team a lift this season have decided to give up football for other interests.

Needless to say, the Beavers are lacking in reserve strength and can ill-afford another string of injuries such as hit them last year.

Assisting O'Rourke with the coaching this season are Tom McCall, Flody Suarez and Walter Wolfe.

Following is a list of players out for the squad:

Marks, a former Salem High griddier, moves up from the freshman squad and is a candidate for center. Peet, who formerly starred at Leontia High, won a letter at Miami last season as a halfback.

Joe Geldner of Poland is one of the guard prospects called upon by Coach Pont.

Shaffer Ford, Theron's Lose Salem AC Ousted From Invitational

Salem AC was knocked out of the third inning off the bat of Menichelli. The only run came in the seventh when the Farrell crew gave up three errors, one allowing Delfavero to reach first and the other two permitting him to advance home.

Behind Guerino's one-hit pitching, Farrell had an easy job of downing the AC's, scoring two runs in the first inning, enough to cop the game. The first inning runs were scored by Guy Guerino, who was hit by the pitcher, and stoops who doubled. Driving Stoops across the plate was Agosti with a single.

After scoring one run in each of the second, fourth and sixth innings, the winners ganged up in the seventh for four more runs, including one four-bag error by the Salem catcher, a homer by Wiley, ad singles by Murray and Yassell.

Theron's scored two runs in the second inning on singles by Lee Haynam, Henderson, Miller and Let Haynam, to cop scoring in its game with New Brighton.

The two runs were enough to keep the locals out front for one inning when New Brighton came through with three runs on a walk to Bailey, and singles to Marchio Loughton, and Williams. The visitors came back for three more in the sixth on a walk to Bailey, doubles by Marchione and Singleton, a single by Williams and an error.

The Avalon Gardens came up with two runs in the first inning in the contest with Shaffer Ford on singles by Lampe, Cordette and Siera and a sacrifice by Del-Bene.

In the third, the winners came up with the game-clinching run on singles by Timlin, Cordetti and Siera and a sacrifice by Del-Bene. The locals two runs came in the first on a single by Hiner and a souble by Ferguson, and in the third on a single by Feicht, who advanced on three errors and singles by Poelen and D. Brudery.

Springfield Local Football Squad Builds Around Eight Lettermen

Center Gary Shillinger, Tackle Bob Brown, End Bruce Hitchcock, Guard George Gbur, Quarterback Jim Allen, Halfbacks Bob Breeding and Jack Rauch and Guard Gary Richey.

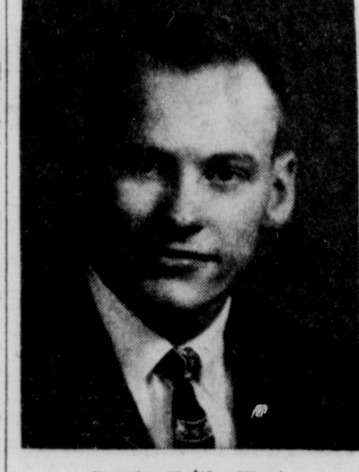

RICHEY WAS an all-county tackle last year but Coach West has converted him to a guard this fall. One reason for the shift was the loss of both of last year's starting guards through graduation.

Coach West believes his team may also have a little trouble at the ends as both of the 1959 starters at those positions are gone.

The coach says he will have a faster squad than last year but it is apparent that the team will be short on size.

"We do have some newcomers who we feel will be pushing somebody for positions," Coach West commented. He mentioned Dan Culver, senior guard; Bob Bowden and Sam McKinney, junior tackles; and Grant "Big Daddy" Hess, a 210-pound junior offensive center and defensive tackle.

IN THE BACKFIELD, some of the younger boys being counted on for varsity action are Sophomore Dick Brungard, Junior Ron

Coach Keith West

Coach Keith West's Springfield Local gridders, who pleasantly surprised most of their followers last season by finishing in the first division of the Inter-County League by winning five of nine games, are now busily training for their 1960 opener at Beaver Local on Sept. 10.

Seven lettermen from last year's squad have been lost through graduation but eight others are back to form the nucleus of what could develop into a formidable outfit.

Scott Cody slammed two home runs and a pair of singles in four official trips to the plate to lead Home Furniture to a rousing 21-5 victory over Starks Colonial Athletic in a Class H game played Friday night at Reilly Field.

League leading Kresge improved its record to 11-0 by winning on a forfeit from Dairy Isle in the other Class H fray slated last night.

Home Furniture racked up 14 hits and took advantage seven Stark's errors to run up 21 runs.

Harry Ewing collected two of Stark's five hits garnered off the offerings of Scott Cody and Ken Stein.

Besides Cody's perfect night at the plate, Ricky Royle poked out a triple and two singles in three official trips for Manager John Herman's Home Furniture team.

NO RACING AT CANFIELD

There will be no stock car racing at the Canfield Speedway Saturday because the Fairgrounds are being made ready for the annual Canfield Fair.

Bill Davis Joins Mount Union Coaching Staff

Bill Davis, whose Mount Union College athletic career was cut short in a Christmas Eve auto accident last year, has joined the school's grid staff as a student assistant.

Head Coach Duke Barret has announced Davis, who will complete requirements for graduation the first semester, will supervise the quarterbacks and defensive backs.

Davis, a graduate of Youngstown Rayen, won four letters in football three in basketball, and one in baseball for the Raiders.

Football was his specialty as his accurate passing arm set numerous Mount marks and earned him All-Ohio Conference, All-Methuonist, and Little All-American mention.

Suffering fractured ribs and a bruised heart wall in the accident, Davis was forced to drop out of school, miss most of the basketball season and a fourth letter in that sport, and virtually give up consideration of pro grid feelers.

However, doctors have given him a clean bill of health and indicated he should have few, if any, effects from the mishap.

Class G All-Star Tilt Carded at Centennial

Loop champion Knights of Columbus will tangle with the Class G All-Stars in a Hot Stove League game at 6 p.m. Sunday at Centennial Park.

The All-Star game will be preceded at 4 p.m. by a tilt between Hunt's Ind. Union of Class G and a group of youngsters, aged 10 to 12, from the morning leagues.

There are about 4 1/2 million golfers in the United States, an increase of more than 30 per cent in the last 10 years.

Merchants' Contest Again Called Off

The Salem Merchants moved to within one game of coping the County-City League playoff title as they won by forfeit from the East Liverpool Cox Merchants who failed to show up with enough players for a scheduled game at Negley Friday night.

Salem leads the best-of-five series two games to none. The third game was scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday here at Centennial Park, but East Liverpool also called off that contest in a phone call this morning. East Liverpool, the regular season champion, was shut-out 4-0 here in the playoff opener Wednesday. Salem finished in second place during the regular season.

During the week of July 15-21, National League pitchers recorded three onehitters, one two-hitter and a three-hitter.

Yankees Take Pair From Tribe; Orioles Trample Athletics Twice

Cardinals Trim Pirates' Lead to 5 1/2; Dodgers Win Two; Braves Victors

The New York Yankees blasted off on that make-or-break weekend in the American League pennant race, rolling a pair of sevens — seven home runs and seven shutout innings of relief help—while putting away the first of three consecutive doubleheaders.

But while they tagged Cleveland 7-6, in 11 innings, and 7-5 (another pair of sevens) at Yankee Stadium Friday night, they couldn't shake free from the pursuing Baltimore Orioles. The Baby Birds stayed just a game behind by Sweeping Kansas City 2-1 and 11-3.

Third place Chicago belted Boston 9-2, but the White Sox lost a half-game and now trail by two. Boston also lost Ted Williams indefinitely. The Big Guy, hounded by injury throughout his brilliant career, strained his left shoulder on a first-inning swing.

Washington tightened its grip on fourth place in the AL by beating Detroit 5-4.

In the National League, two of the best, Stan Musial and Warren Spahn, trimmed Pittsburgh's lead to 5 1/2 games. Stan the Man hit a two-run homer that gave St. Louis a 3-1 decision over the Pirates. And Spahn, striking out 11 for his 16th victory, smacked a tie-breaking home run as second place Milwaukee defeated San Francisco 3-2.

Los Angeles swept Cincinnati, 10-1 and 2-0; and Philadelphia beat Chicago Cubs 4-2.

The Yankees came from behind in both games. They unloaded five home runs in the opener, with Yogi Berra's second of the game, beating reliever Bobby Locke (1-4). Duke Maas and Luis Arroyo blanked the Indians over the last three frames. Arroyo was the winner for a 2-0 record. Mickey Mantle, hitting 30 for the sixth consecutive year; Elston Howard, and Bill Skowron, who also powered one in the nightcap, crashed the other home runs.

In the second game, Bob Cerv overhauled a 2-0 Cleveland lead with a three-run homer in the fourth inning. And when they blew that edge, the Yanks bounced back again with a pair of unearned runs in the seventh when second baseman Ken Aspromonte threw wild trying to nail the tying run at the plate. Then Skowron iced it with home run No. 25, his one-season high.

All three runs came home on sacrifice flies in the opener at Baltimore. Marv Breeding brought in the clincher in the ninth, off Ned Garver (1-7), after a single by Gus Triandos and a pinch-double by Gene Woodling. Lefty Steve Barber won his ninth, giving up just four hits and striking out eight. The Birds then rocked loser Bud Daley (13-12) and three relievers for 16 hits in the nightcap while Hoyt Wilhelm won his 10th with six innings of one-hit, shut-out relief.

Southpaw Frank Baumann beat his ex-mates with a seven-hitter for a 9-5 record with the White Sox. Earl Wilson (2-2) was the loser as Chicago collected a dozen hits, six of them doubles. Luis Aparicio drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a double, and Jim Landis counted two with three hits in five trips.

Jim Lemon's 30th home run cracked a sixth-inning tie for the Senators after Detroit had scored four runs in the first two innings. Pete Ramos (10-13) went all the way, giving up 10 hits. Jim Bunning (8-10) was the loser as the Tigers dropped their third in a row—after winning seven straight.

Crum Indicted on Two New Charges

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Everett Crum, who terrorized southern Ohio during a 55-hour spree last February, faces new charges of attempted jail escape and assault with a deadly weapon.

The Clinton County grand jury indicted him Friday on charges in Crum's unsuccessful attempt to break out of county jail Aug. 11. But Crum, 32, won't have to worry about them for about 20 years.

He is in Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus after judges of common pleas courts in three counties sentenced him on his pleas of guilty to a variety of charges.

He faces at least 20 years on two charges of kidnapping to extort in Clinton County. Crum also faces terms in two shooting battles with police in Highland County.

The latest indictments stem from a jailbreak try with a gun apparently smuggled into county jail.

INJURED IN EXPLOSION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A gas explosion at a new school in near-Reynoldsburg put a husband and wife in a hospital with burns Friday. The victims of the blast, which caused slight damage, were Mrs. and Mrs. Theodore Crane.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Neuralgia Is Like Ringing Phone

It's the last half of the ninth. The score is tied. The bases are full. There are two out. The home team's cleanup hitter is stepping to the plate. And the phone rings.

You leave your chair before the TV screen and go to the next room to answer. A blurry voice asks if this is a number that doesn't remotely resemble yours.

You hurry back to the count on the local hero is 3. Dr. H. T. Hyman and 2. Again the phone. Again the same voice with the same question.

AGAIN THE DASH back to the screen. But now the game is over. The crowd is pouring out of the stands. You're going to have to wait for the papers to find out what really happened.

You tell the story to your pals next day. Who do you cuss at? The phone? Or the fathead who misused it at the critical moments of the game?

Now keep this episode in mind while we talk about neuralgia. Which really means a nerve that's taken it upon itself to cause you pain.

ABOUT 999 times out of 1,000 when someone tells you he's suffering from neuralgia, you may be sure that the abused nerve is no more at fault than the phone that rang during the home half of the ninth. That's why the dash for a pain-killer ought to be one of the last things you do. Instead of the first.

For example, take a facial neuralgia. It's quite true that once every blue moon the nerve itself seems to be primarily at fault.

And in this condition, called trigeminal neuralgia, the pain may be so severe and persistent that the physician has to cut or destroy the offending structure.

But most often, as in the case of the phone that's misused by some fathead, the nerve is the innocent victim of something that's gone sour along the line.

LIKE AN impacted third molar. Or an abscessed fang of a tooth. Or a pimple in the ear canal. Or an infected middle ear. Or pressure on the nerve root as a result of a misalignment due to loss of teeth or an illfitting den-ture. Or maybe even an increased pressure in the eyeball such as occurs in glaucoma about which I wrote a few weeks ago.

One way or other, don't take it out on the nerve. Unless you're the sort that would pull out your phone because someone dialed the wrong number a couple of times.

For a copy of Dr. Hyman's "Neuralgia," send 10 cents to Dr. Hyman, care of The Salem News, Box 489, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.
